with us four papers outlining progress in the Indo-Pak relationship since 2003, pending bilateral proposals, unilateral Indian actions, and areas where India perceives Pakistan to be dragging its feet. Following is the Indian paper on "Matters taken up with Pakistan after bilateral talks on September 4-6, 2004," which Singh offered as a summary of GOI-initiated progress over recent weeks. These steps, many of which have received little publicity, are reflective of the broad expansion of Indo-Pak interaction that has occurred in recent months.
